

KUKA Nordic and e-motion in a new partnership

KUKA Nordic is growing their partner network by partnering with the automation company e-motions. –with e-motions expertise and network in the manufacturing industry and KUKA’s extensive portfolio for robot-based automation, we see a future where we together can help increase the productivity of our customers, says Christoffer Lindblad, Service Account Manager at KUKA Nordic.

In order to offer their customers, the best technical solutions KUKA Nordic collaborates with a network of system partners. The latest in the line is e-motions specializing in all types of manufacturing industries but also e-commerce automation. e-motion is located in Småland in the south of Sweden. The company has recently introduced the ARGOS product line, which consists of a complete machine tending cells. Customers can choose from a variety of robot sizes within The KUKA Cybertech and Iontec families.

- This type of standardized automation cells will help many customers to automate their processing machines fast and easy with flexibility, says Christoffer Lindblad.

- The collaboration with KUKA means that we will be able to deliver an extensive, up-to-date solution with an attractive package price. With KUKA's fantastic products, we look forward to new innovative solutions, says e-motions CEO Nils Brunke.
